St. Stephen's Conflict Clinic at Humber College

Councillor Grimes attended the opening of the South Etobicoke Humber Conflict Clinic on Thursday, April 18th, 2013. The new clinic is a partnership between Humber College and St. Stephen's Community House. It has been created to serve both the Humber community and the wider Etobicoke community.

Interns Carolyn Dinshaw, Tara Rawski, and Iftu Tahir worked diligently with their professor Mary Lee as well as with the staff from St. Stephens to get the clinic up and running. They are from the group of Humber students in the new Alternative Dispute Resolution \(ADR\) postgraduate certificate program and are able to put their classroom skills into practice with this new clinic.

ADR students will work side-by-side with professional mediators from St. Stephen's House to help clients find resolutions to disputes without resorting to time-consuming, costly legal action – providing both a valuable service to the community and gaining practical experience in conflict mediation. The mediators will be able to help with situations involving landlord/tenant disputes, neighbourhood conflicts, commercial issues and interpersonal conflicts.

The service is free, voluntary and confidential. Clients may be referred by a third-party organization, such as a community service agency, or may self-refer.

For more information, please contact St. Stephen's House at 416-925-2103, ex. 229.

Festivals and other special events are important to the city, injecting hundreds of millions of dollars annually into Toronto's economy, and they are enjoyed each year by local residents.

In addition to road closures related to special events, there is a significant amount of road work taking place in the city. People are encouraged to take public transit as a greener, faster and more affordable way of getting to their destinations.

Those who need to drive in the general vicinity of special events should allow extra time to get to and from their destination. A more complete list of events and road work is available at <http://www.toronto.ca/torontostreets/>.

Public Consultations

For a full list of consultations please visit <http://www.toronto.ca/civic-engagement/consultations.htm>

Public consultations on Toronto's development charges

The City of Toronto is seeking input to update its development charge rates and policies as required under the Development Charges Act.

Development charges are fees collected from developers at the time a building permit is issued. The fees help pay for the cost of infrastructure required to provide municipal services to new development, such as roads, transit, water and sewer infrastructure, community centres and fire and police facilities.

Most municipalities in Ontario use development charges to ensure that the cost of providing infrastructure to service new development is not borne by existing residents and businesses in the form of higher property taxes.

A comprehensive background study determines the maximum development charge rates that can be levied under provincially legislated rules. Draft rates have now been completed and have been released for consultation.

The City is seeking input from the public on the draft rates and on related policies, such as development charge exemptions and transition provisions.

What do you want the City to consider? Learn about the issues, provide your views and feedback, and join discussion groups on key topics at two public consultation sessions from 7 to 9 p.m. on the following dates:

May 9 - Members Lounge, North York Civic Centre, 5100 Yonge St.

May 13 - Rotunda, Metro Hall, 55 John St.

Registration is requested. Please email devcharges@toronto.ca with your name, organization (if applicable) and the number of persons attending.

Following the consultation process, the City will release a final background study and draft bylaw for consideration at an upcoming Executive Committee meeting this summer.

More information about the City of Toronto's 2013 Development Charges Bylaw Review is available at http://www.toronto.ca/finance/dev\_charges\_bylaw\_review/2013.htm.

Have your Say – E-Bikes

The information provided by participants will be anonymously compiled and analyzed to better understand opportunities and challenges regarding how e-bikes may be included in Toronto's transportation mix.

The survey contains 24 questions for all respondents. Respondents who identify themselves as e-bike users are also asked about how they use their e-bike.

Click this link to participate in the survey now

The City of Toronto is actively soliciting the participation of a diverse cross section of respondents who use City of Toronto multi-use paths, bicycle lanes, sidewalks and roadways.

Data will be compiled between April 10 - May 8 2013.

All information collected will be handled in accordance with the Municipal Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act.

For more information about e-bikes in the City of Toronto, please visit our website www.toronto.ca/cycling/e-bikes
