Time to Change Clocks – And Smoke Alarm Batteries

Daylight savings time starts this weekend, when we need to turn our clocks ahead one hour. Toronto Fire Services reminds residents that it's also time to replace the batteries in your smoke alarms - and carbon monoxide alarms if you have them.

Every home in Ontario must have a working smoke alarm on every level and outside all sleeping areas. By providing early warning and critical extra seconds for escape, working smoke alarms can cut in half your family's chance of dying in a fire.

"By installing and maintaining a working smoke alarm on every level of your home, you are ensuring that your family is equipped with the best defence against the devastating effects of fire," says Toronto Fire Chief Jim Sales.

Tips:

- When installing a smoke alarm, read the manufacturer's instructions on correct placement, testing and maintenance.
- Test your smoke alarms every month using the test button.
- Replace smoke alarm batteries at least once a year and whenever the low-battery warning chirps.
- Replace smoke alarms if they are 10 years and older.
- Avoid removing the battery as a response to the activation of a smoke alarm from cooking or steam. Instead of removing the battery, move the smoke detector or purchase a smoke detector with a hush-button feature that will temporarily silence the alarm.

It is the responsibility of homeowners to install and maintain their smoke alarms. It is the responsibility of landlords to ensure that their rental properties comply with the law. Tenants whose rented properties do not have the required number of smoke alarms should contact their landlord immediately. It is against the law for tenants to remove smoke alarm batteries or to tamper with their alarms in any way.

Failure to comply with the Ontario Fire Code smoke alarm requirements could, upon conviction, result in a maximum fine of up to $50,000 for individuals, imprisonment, or both, and up to $100,000 for corporations, imprisonment, or both.

More information is available at <http://www.toronto.ca/fire/prevention>

Exhibition Place Waste Diversion Reaches 82%

In 2012 our Facility Services Division successfully diverted 82.56% of the waste stream collected from all of our events, offices, shops, and tenants on the grounds. This number was achieved from the gross amount of 5,816,182.4 kg of total waste collected and then sorted into 28 separate streams equaling 4,801,590 kg of diverted materials. Due to the tremendous efforts of staff, we are proud to say that only 1,014,592.4 kg of the solid waste generated at Exhibition Place was sent to landfill. These numbers reflect a 14.22% increase from the 2011 diversion rate.

Individually BMO Field and Ricoh Coliseum achieved exceptional waste diversion numbers for 2012. BMO Field gross materials and waste was 1,044,186.6 kg, of which 984,020.6 kg was diverted from landfill, with a waste diversion rate of 94.24%. Ricoh Coliseum gross materials and waste was 171,025.6 kg, of which 148,545.6 kg was diverted from landfill, with a waste diversion rate of 86.86%.

One of the main reasons for our success and increased diversion rates for 2012 is due to the creation of a central year-round Waste Diversion Storage Facility. This storage area is dedicated to separating, sorting, and storing many of the materials until shippable quantities are generated to be recycled. Our Waste Diversion is a great accomplishment, and we congratulate all our staff who work hard to make us GREENER everyday!

Local Company Takes Aim at Changing Climate with Award-Winning Solar Installation

ABOVE PHOTO: An array of 2,600 solar panels point to the sun from this specially engineered rack on the roof of the Metropolitan Tea Company in south Etobicoke. The installation earned the company a Toronto Board of Trade Sustainability Award in November, 2012.

Perched high on the roof of an unobtrusive building on Butterick Road in south Etobicoke, a space-age-looking platform cradles one of the largest solar panel installations in the city. With a generating capacity of 500-kilowatts, it was built for the Metropolitan Tea Company and received strong project support from Toronto Hydro. It may be just the inspiration you need to start thinking about installing a solar panel at your home or business.

"After moving to this building, we realized that with four times the square footage of our previous location, we needed to manage our electricity and other utility costs," said Gerry Vandergrift, President, Metropolitan Tea Company. "As a company, we're also very mindful of our sustainability, so these were the two motivating factors behind our decision to install a solar array."

In March, 2011, Mr. Vandergrift contacted Toronto Hydro to explain his plans. The utility quickly assigned an energetic and knowledgeable team to conduct an impact assessment aimed at identifying any service upgrades - inside and out - that, for safety reasons, would need to be completed before connecting the new solar array to the city's electricity grid. Once construction was completed - an enormous rooftop infrastructure effectively shifted the weight of the solar array from the building's roof to its foundation - Toronto Hydro's Feed-In Tariff (FIT) team returned to the site to finalize all metering and connections. In July, 2012, the 2,600 panels generated their first kilowatt.

"The utility worked seamlessly with Northgrid Solar, our construction partner, and RBC Bank to keep the project on our aggressive timeline. It's gratifying to know that on sunny days, our solar project helps to power many of the factories on this street," said Mr. Vandergrift.

Under the FIT program, residents and businesses in Ontario can generate renewable energy from solar, wind, hydro and bio-energy sources, and sell it back to the grid for a guaranteed price. Since 2010, Toronto Hydro has worked with more than 400 Toronto homes and small businesses, and 65 commercial customers, to connect safely to the grid, with a total capacity of 15 megawatts per year. The utility assesses customers' proposed generation requirements, schedules the work, installs the proper metering and then facilitates the payment agreement with the Ontario Power Authority, all on behalf of the customer.

To speak with an expert about whether your home or business can accommodate a solar panel installation, call Toronto Hydro's FIT Team hotline at 416-542-3099, or email fit@torontohydro.com. For more information about the Ontario Power Authority's FIT or microFIT programs, visit the 'Energy Conservation' tab at torontohydro.com.
