

Burlington History Index

Introduction

The Burlington History Index is a retrieval tool for the library's non-digitized materials primarily located in the Burlington History Room at Central Library. Identification of and access to non-catalogued materials within BPL's local history collection is available only through this alphabetical index.

Items that are listed in the library catalogue may be searched by Title, Author and/or Subject. Topics of local interest have been identified from these items and included in the Burlington History Index. These items may be found in the Burlington History Room, or with our regular non-fiction collections mainly at Central Library.

Content includes mainly Burlington and Oakville/Halton County information, but also Hamilton and Wentworth County landmarks and events as they have linked to our past.

Historical materials and archival holdings housed in the Burlington History Room are for reference only.

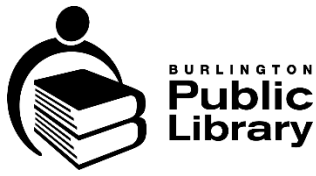

Burlington History Index Resources

The types of Local History resources identified in this index include:

- an extensive vertical file collection of uncatalogued pamphlets, newspaper clippings including biographical files of pioneer families and files on cemeteries, churches and schools
- scrapbooks and other materials donated by current or former citizens of Burlington or assembled by library staff and volunteers
- selected references from books on our local history, many of which are reference only, and must be used in the library

How to use the Burlington History Index
